Suzanne Bogdan, managing partner in the Fort Lauderdale office, was quoted by the Orlando Sentinel in the October 20 article, "Girl's Suicide Teaches us that Parents Must be Digital Guardians."

The article discussed the recent suicide of a 12-year-old girl following online bullying.

Suzanne commented on the arrest of two girls charged with bullying the 12-year-old.

She argued that, considering the girls' development level, "pursuing legal recourse ... is not a likely scenario for proper punishment or for curbing this behavior."
