Opposition Is Growing to Unpaid Internships for College Credit

Publication
3.25.14

John Thompson's blog post "Opposition Is Growing to Unpaid Internships for College Credit," was published on TLNT.com.

We have already reported that a group calling itself the "Fair Pay Campaign" aims to pressure colleges and universities not to facilitate unpaid internships or even post notices about them, John wrote. This initiative appears to be gaining momentum.

Companies and other organizations thinking about participating in internships sponsored by educational institutions will be wise to consider what impact this "Fair Pay Campaign" might have upon the potential for intern-related wage disputes, he wrote.

Read John's full blog post on the Wage and Hour Blog.

Copyright © 2024 Fisher Phillips LLP. All Rights Reserved.