Wage and Hour Wednesday: Employer Survival Guide to Office Parties, Charity Events, Volunteering and More

Podcasts
12.22.22

Fisher Phillips Wage and Hour Podcast

Wage and Hour Wednesday: Employer Survival Guide to O…

As many employers transition employees back to the office who have been working remotely, it is a good time to re-evaluate your volunteer programs, training sessions, and other corporate events. November's Wage and Hour Wednesday podcast provides the analysis for common scenarios under the FLSA when determining whether in-person, fully remote, or hybrid events are compensable.

Attorneys Micah Dawson and Matthew Korn join host Hagood Tighe, Co-chair of the firm's Wage and Hour Group, to discuss how failing to properly treat some events as compensable may land you in hot water and lead to unwanted minimum wage and/or overtime claims.

Related People

Matthew R. Korn
Partner

Copyright © 2024 Fisher Phillips LLP. All Rights Reserved.

803.740.7652
Email

J. Hagood Tighe
Partner
803.740.7655
Email

Erica G. Wilson
Associate
412.822.6624
Email

Service Focus

Wage and Hour

Copyright © 2024 Fisher Phillips LLP. All Rights Reserved.