New Massachusetts Non-Compete Legislation Introduced

Insights
1.20.11

A few weeks ago, we outlined the Top 5 Non-Compete Issues to Watch For In 2011. Among our top five, we noted that non-compete legislation stalled in the Massachusetts Legislature in 2010, and we forecasted that new and modified legislation would be introduced in 2011. Sure enough, a new bill was recently introduced. It contains numerous changes from the prior legislation, and it addresses issues ranging from consideration to garden leave to inevitable disclosure. A copy of the bill is available below in pdf format, and an excellent summary of the proposed legislation along with a description of the changes from last year's bill is available on Russell Beck's blog at FairCompetitionLaw.com.

Michael R. Greco is a partner in the Employee Defection & Trade Secrets Practice Group at Fisher Phillips. To receive notice of future blog posts either follow Michael R. Greco on Twitter or on LinkedIn or subscribe to this blog's RSS feed.

Massachusetts 2011 Noncompete Bill.pdf (135.65 kb)

Related People

Michael R. Greco
Regional Managing Partner
303.218.3655
Email

Copyright © 2024 Fisher Phillips LLP. All Rights Reserved.

Copyright © 2024 Fisher Phillips LLP. All Rights Reserved.