Lonnie Giamela and Hannah Sweiss have been named to the Los Angeles Business Journal's 2022 Leaders of Influence: Labor and Employment Attorneys. Honorees are recognized for their unwavering contributions to the local business and legal communities, service as trusted advisors to clients, and their commitment to maintaining the highest professional and ethical standards.

Lonnie is profiled for his continued efforts at the forefront of class action and PAGA litigation. He's referred to as a "go-to" resource for his clients, drawing on his experience from his family's chain of sandwich shops in Los Angeles. Lonnie's profile emphasizes his diverse client base and his ability to relate to his clients' business pressures and aid them in finding practical solutions.

Hannah is highlighted for her critical work as a key advisor to employers across the country during the COVID-19 pandemic. She has remained up to date on the ever-changing legal landscape that employers have faced over the last two years and has become a go-to source for guidance on safety protocols and vaccine policies. Hannah's profile underscores her commitment to staying current on changing federal, state, and local laws to which employers are required to adhere.
