Mark Ricciardi was quoted in Nevada Business on February 1, 2015. The article “Industry Focus: Attorneys” examined the trends and challenges facing the legal industry in Nevada.

Mark was quoted on his take of the greatest challenge facing Law Firms.

Mark said, “The biggest challenge for the industry is trying to grow and train talent. Young lawyers have always been the backbone of our firms. The partners supervise the work the associates grind out and associates learn as they go. However, clients now are becoming much more careful about who works on their cases. We’ve had a couple of clients who have said they will not pay for an associate with less than five years of experience to work on their cases. So how do we get these people trained?”
