

160,000 Ohioans Would Get Overtime with Obama Administration Proposal

News

6.16.15

The article “160,000 Ohioans Would Get Overtime with Obama Administration Proposal” discussed how about 160,000 Ohio workers would be eligible for overtime pay through an Obama Administration proposal aimed at raising the wages of lower-wage salaried workers, such as fast-food restaurant managers.

The proposed ruling could potentially “open the floodgates to wage and hour litigation” over which workers are eligible to receive overtime. Employers need to know how the proposal would impact their businesses.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.