Lorie Maring was quoted in Inside Counsel on June 25, 2015. The article “Obamacare Survives Key Legal Challenge as Subsidies Remain in Place” discussed how the Affordable Care Act (ACA), also known as Obamacare, won an important victory with the Supreme Court’s new ruling in the King v. Burwell case.

Lorie was quoted on how this decision will impact employers, moving forward.

Similarly, Lorie said the decision “will have little impact for employers who provide adequate and affordable coverage to their full-time employees in compliance with the ACA-shared-responsibility mandate. But for large employers that were hoping for a last-minute reprieve from the ACA penalties, the Supreme Court’s decision means those employers will need to reevaluate whether to offer coverage.”
