The article, “D.C. Circuit Knocks NLRB Bid for Attorney Fees,” featured in Corporate Counsel, reported on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit's recent ruling, in which the court rejected the National Labor Relation Board's (NLRB) decision to grant attorney fees in the HTH Corporate case.

Jim Walters weighed in on the case.

He said that because HTH was a repeat offender this was a good case for the NLRB to use to test whether it could get attorney fees. “But at the end of the day, the agency just didn’t have the authority,” said Jim.
