The article, "Experts: Plan to Comply With New Overtime Rules in December," featured on Nation's Restaurant News, addressed why restaurant operators should plan to comply with anticipated changes to overtime regulations scheduled to go into effect in December, despite a legal challenge that could put the new rules on hold.

Alden Parker weighed in on the new rules.

Alden warned that a focus on the salary threshold is only one side of the equation.

"I'm looking at this as an opportunity for restaurateurs to scrutinize their positions," he said.
