In the article, "Start of Trump Era Causes Bewilderment Over Policy Formulation," featured in Financial Times, attorney Kim Thompson weighs-in on President Trump's recent executive order on immigration.

"I have been practising immigration law for almost 25 years and I don't remember anything that was this level of disruption and uncertainty," said Kim Thompson, head of the immigration practice for law firm Fisher Phillips. "To have something take effect immediately is rare . . . Right now everyone is fumbling around and flying blind with regard to how this is all going to play out."
