

How Employers Can Safeguard The Workplace Against Data Breaches

News

3.13.17

In recent years, the number of data breaches has been increasing at an alarming rate, posing a significant threat to businesses of all sizes. On average, a total of 80-90 million cybersecurity incidents is reported annually. In 2015 alone, we saw a 35% increase in cyberattacks from the prior year, and that number is continuing to climb.

In the article, "How Employers Can Safeguard The Workplace Against Data Breaches," featured in Crain's Cleveland Business, Attorney Sarah Moore speaks about the looming threats of cyberattacks and how to crack down on cybersecurity in the workplace.

To read the full article, please visit Crain's Cleveland Business.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Sarah Moore
Of Counsel
440.740.2145
Email

