In the article, "Legal Experts Weigh In On the Impact of AI," featured in Akron Legal News, Partner Sarah Moore provides commentary on the potential effects of AI in the workplace.

Moore said just as industrial automation displaced portions of the blue-collar employee sector, AI will similarly replace and transform the white collar world in an unprecedented way.

"With AI the computer is performing human thinking tasks and that will dynamically change the workforce, displacing a different group of employees," she said. "In the financial sector AI is used in different software platforms to perform the financial analysis that people would perform so decisions can be made faster.
