Irvine Managing Partner Jim McDonald was featured in this week's Law Firm's section of the Orange County Business Journal. In this feature, Jim described how wage-and-hour lawsuits and individual disability discrimination claims are still very frequent, and as a result of the #MeToo movement, sexual harassment claims are on the rise. The claims are not limited to Hollywood, though. An increase of sexual harassment complaints are being seen in Orange County in general, and Jim stressed the importance of businesses doing all that they can to prevent sexual harassment, especially through company policies and training.
