

Fisher Phillips Attorney Addresses Massachusetts Paid Family and Medical Leave Bill

News

12.06.18

On July 1, Massachusetts businesses will be required to start paying the state to fund a new paid family and medical leave program for their employees, part of the “grand bargain” legislation passed on Beacon Hill this summer. Boston attorney Joshua Nadreau spoke with the Boston Business Journal about how any last-minute changes to this bill could affect employer’s payroll systems in a big way. He told reporters, “If past is prologue with administration regulations, they tend to come very near the deadline or after the deadline.”

To read the full article, visit Boston Business Journal (subscription required).

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Joshua D. Nadreau
Regional Managing Partner and Vice Chair, Labor Relations Group
617.722.0044
Email