On January 7, 2019, Fisher Phillips announced the expansion of the firm's Washington, D.C. presence with the addition of six attorneys from the Farrington Law Firm. Partners Daniel E. Farrington, Margaret Jacobsen Scheele and Sarah K. Biran, as well as of counsel Sherron Thomas McClain and two associates, Lauren Goetzl and Maxim Doroshenko have joined Fisher Phillips.

In interviews with The National Law Journal, Law360 and Daily Report, Farrington, who will serve as co-regional managing partner with Theresa Connolly tells reporters: "We've hit a point in evolution of our firm that we've been lucky enough to generate clients who have national needs. Fisher Phillips' national platform will allow us to expand the breadth of service that were able to offer to our clients." When asked about the overlap in firm values, he said: "We talked a lot about the law being a customer-service business and that is something that's very important to us. Fisher Phillips is very client service-centric and so our core values in that regard aligned pretty darn well. That was a big driver for me to be at a place that shared our belief in client-centric legal work"
