TAMPA (February 27, 2019) – Fisher Phillips announces the addition of LaKisha M. Kinsey-Sallis in its Tampa office.

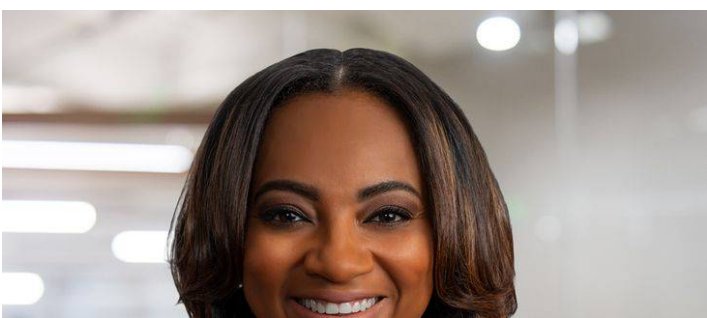

Prior to joining Fisher Phillips, LaKisha was a partner at a local labor and employment law firm, representing large and small private and public-sector companies across multiple industries, including food and hospitality, education, health care, retail and government. At Fisher Phillips, LaKisha will continue to focus much of her practice on those same areas, working across the firm's national platform.

“LaKisha has an extensive background providing counsel to a variety of public and private sector businesses, making her well-equipped to handle the needs of our clients,” said Christine Howard, regional managing partner of the firm's Tampa office. “As we continue to expand our capabilities in Tampa and across Florida, adding experienced attorneys like LaKisha is a great benefit to our clients and the firm.”

LaKisha earned her Juris Doctor degree from Loyola University Chicago School of Law and her undergraduate degree from Florida A&M University. She is a member of various professional organizations, including The George Edgecomb Bar Association, Hillsborough County Bar Association, Hillsborough County Women Lawyer's Association, The Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce, and The Florida Bar where she serves on the Diversity and Inclusion Committee.
