

Chicago Managing Partner Named Notable GenX Leader in Law

News

6.11.19

Steve Miller, regional managing partner of the Chicago office, was named to the Crain's Chicago Business 2019 list of Notable GenX Leaders in Law. His profile focuses on his work counseling management, before litigation, on issues related to employees and the workplace and specifically noted his extensive experience handling lawsuits related to the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Lawyers on Crain's GenX list were selected for their significant leadership positions inside and outside their firms, significant involvement in legal trends and issues, their power to effect change and their impact on Chicago's business community. They were also recognized as role models or mentors to younger attorneys.
