

Memphis Attorney Recommends Four Action Steps Employers Can Take to Help Prevent Workplace Violence

News

11.21.19

Violence is now the third-leading cause of workplace fatalities, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In a Memphis Business Journal article, attorney Greg Grisham recommends steps employers can take to prevent violence in their workplaces, including adopting and enforcing “zero-tolerance” policies, conducting regular employee training, prohibiting weapons on premises and reporting actual and threatened violence to law enforcement.
