

Lawyer Weighs-In on Unique Layoff Challenges Caused by the Pandemic

News
5.05.20

In an interview with the Denver Business Journal, partner Todd Fredrickson is one of a select group of Colorado lawyers to comment on the legal issues facing companies that are conducting layoffs due to the pandemic. In the article, Todd recommends that employers “explore all of their options when considering what cost-cutting measures to take.” He goes on to explain that all options need to be carefully weighed to determine the best course of action, and employers should “make sure [they] consider whether a furlough or temporary layoff, or a job attached layoff might be the better approach.”

To read the article, visit Denver Business Journal (subscription required).

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Todd A. Fredrickson
Partner
303.218.3650
Email

Related Offices

Denver