

New Jersey Wage Theft Act: Guidance as Employers Get Back to Business

Publication
8.21.20

In their article for the New Jersey Law Journal, Kathleen Caminiti and Sarah Wieselthier explain why employers should carefully consider their wage and hour practices when implementing reopening plans in light of the state's Wage Theft Act. The article outlines the Act's key provisions, including enhanced damages and the statute of limitations, as well as compensation considerations employers should keep top of mind amid the COVID-19 pandemic to avoid costly litigation and potentially criminal penalties.

To read the full article, visit the New Jersey Law Journal (subscription required).

Related People

Kathleen McLeod Caminiti
Partner
908.516.1062
Email

Sarah Wieselthier

Partner

908.516.1064

Email

Service Focus

Wage and Hour

Related Offices

New Jersey