

Where Was Your Employee Injured? – And Why It Matters

Publication

10.06.20

Workplace injury claims are usually fact-specific, and each state may have a slightly different view of compensability. In an article published by Rock Road Recycle, Jerry Cline explains that there is a very fine line separating a workplace injury from other injuries. In the article he describes how certain states draw that line and he explains that when, and more importantly, where the injury occurs may be the difference between no claim or a very costly one.

To read the article, visit Rock Road Recycle.

Related People

Jerry P. Cline

Partner

440.740.2142

Email

Service Focus

Workers' Compensation and Unemployment Cost Management

Workplace Safety and Catastrophe Management