

Lawyer Discusses Insurance and Tax Implications of a Remote Workforce

News

10.06.20

In an interview with Business Insurance, Bob Robenalt discusses some of the insurance and tax implications that employers face with their newly remote workforce due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The article explains that one of the most challenging areas for employers is dealing with workers compensation, especially when employees are working in another state. Bob explains that “[t]he lack of appropriate workers comp coverage can create a dollar-for-dollar obligation on the part of the employer for medical costs and penalties if a worker is injured — and the loss of protection from the exclusivity provision.”

To read the full article, visit Business Insurance.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Robert M. Robenalt

Partner

614.453.7611

Email

Service Focus

Workers' Compensation and Unemployment Cost Management