

Sacramento Bee Turns to Fisher Phillips for Insight on Supreme Court Nominee's Potential Impact on Labor Law

News

10.06.20

In an article focused on how Amy Coney Barrett could reshape California's gig economy law and labor unions, The Sacramento Bee turned to Todd Lyon, co-chair of Fisher Phillips' Labor Relations practice, for insight into what employers might expect. While her previous decisions may provide some insight into how she may rule on the U.S. Supreme Court, Todd says it's not crystal clear what kind of views she would hold on some of these workplace topics. He says Barrett has favored employers more than employees so far in her rulings, but she can surprise people in her Supreme Court Decisions.

To read the full article, visit The Sacramento Bee.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Todd A. Lyon

Partner and Labor Relations Group Co-Chair

503.205.8095

Email

Service Focus

Labor Relations

Related Offices

Portland, OR