Shayna Balch was a guest blogger for the Phoenix Business Journal on June 3, 2014.

Last week, the Phoenix office of Fisher and Phillips hosted an all-day human resources workshop dealing with a variety of labor and employment law topics. We were fortunate to get feedback from a number of valley HR professionals, and during our conversations several trends and requests for information were top of mind, Shayna wrote.

In this article, Shayna provides descriptions of three of these trends and suggestions on how to manage them effectively.

- Litigation issues are on the rise
- Workers want their time off
- The NLRB and the EEOC are keeping watch
