

How To Design A Summer Dress Code That Keeps Employees Cool And Professional

Publication

7.02.14

Jeff Mandel, Regional Managing Partner in the Orlando office, provided advice to employers on how to design a summer dress code in an article for the Orlando Business Journal posted on July 2, 2014. He outlined four key factors to consider when contemplating dress code changes:

- Current culture of the workplace
- Impact of a more casual dress code on clients, customers or other stakeholders
- Consider potential risk management issues
- Would changes to the dress code policies be viewed as sexual harassment

Click here to read the full article.

Related People

Jeffrey E. Mandel
Regional Managing Partner
407.541.0850
Email