

National Media Points to Fisher Phillips' Vaccine Survey on How Employers Are Managing Vaccines in the Workplace

News

2.04.21

Fisher Phillips released the results of its first Flash Survey on COVID-19 Vaccine Considerations, which captured over 700 employer responses to questions about the COVID-19 vaccine in their workplaces. The findings show that a majority of employers are choosing not to mandate the vaccine in their workplaces but are encouraging their employees to receive the vaccine. Reuters and Business Insurance reported on the findings showcasing that a small number of employers are considering offering incentives such as cash and paid time off because of uncertainty about their legality.

To read the articles, visit Reuters and Business Insurance.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.