

Philadelphia Regional Managing Partner on the Future of Cities

News

2.03.21

The American City Business Journals takes an in-depth look at downtown business landscapes across the country amid the COVID-19 pandemic. In the article, Chris Stief is interviewed about the firm's office move from Randor, PA to Philadelphia's vibrant City Center. He says that cities still offer advantages that other settings cannot match. The office's move has helped recruit a number of attorneys and remains a talking point while the firm seeks to add new talent.
