It's no secret that the startup community is booming in Arizona. Recently named by Forbes magazine as one of the best cities to start a business, the Valley of the Sun is opening its doors to entrepreneurs from all industries. As with any new company, the "to-do" list for business owners can be extensive, including the hiring, managing and termination of all staff members.

In the article, Shayna examines four HR challenges that could potentially wreak havoc on your newfound venture.

- Not having the right policies in place
- Not keeping proper records and paperwork
- Not hiring and firing smart
- Having a "too small to matter" mentality
