The article, “High Court’s Empty Seat Delivers Union Victory,” featured in the Los Angeles Business Journal, discussed how the U.S. Supreme Courts’ ruling Tuesday in the first controversial case decided since the death of Justice Antonin Scalia in February delivered a big victory to labor unions and previewed what could be a new feature at the court for the foreseeable future: the 4-4 tie.

Todd Scherwin weighed in on the importance of this case.

“This is a major win for organized labor to not get the 9th Circuit case overturned,” said Todd. “A lot of union-side labor lawyers were looking at this case as a possible death sentence.”
