Podcasts

Jan 26, 2021

In this podcast, California attorneys Ben Ebbink and Hannah Sweiss discuss COVID-19 issues in the California workplace, specifically the details of a dramatic new state statute (AB865) that imposes incredible new notification requirements – among other things – on California employers. The new law, in effect as of January 1, 2021, completely redefines what an employer must do when there is a COVID-19 case in a California workplace. It is a must-listen for any organization with a presence in California.
