

Balancing Employment Law Compliance with COVID-19 Vaccine Incentive Programs

News

3.16.21

In an article published by Medical Journal Houston, Mauro Ramirez describes how healthcare employers might incentivize their employees to take the COVID-19 vaccine, and he explains how such incentives interplay with pertinent employment laws. Mauro's article focuses on two broad incentive categories – paid time off and financial incentives – with a discussion about how healthcare employers must continue to weigh the risks and benefits of both categories in order to minimize potential legal exposure.

To read the article, visit Medical Journal Houston.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Industry Focus

Healthcare

Trending

COVID-19/Vaccine Resource Center