

Remote Work in New York in our New Normal – Re-Assessing and Implementing Telework Policies and Practices

Event

4.27.21

1:00 PM — 2:00 PM EDT

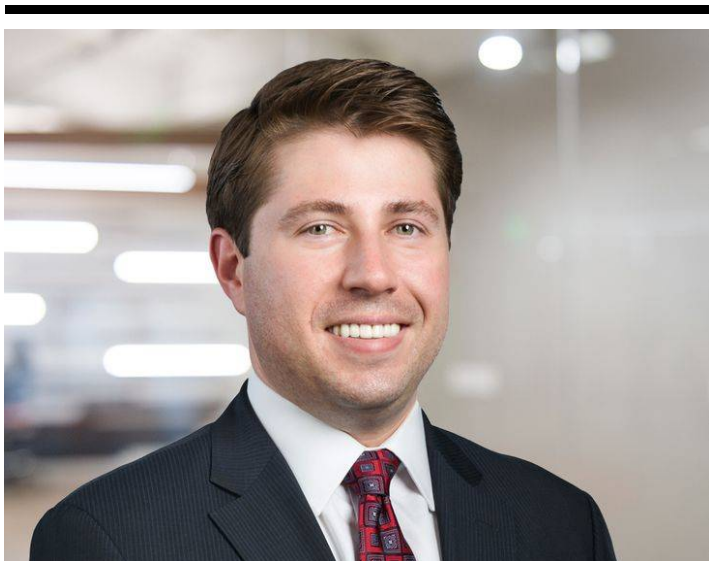

COVID-19 has forced companies, big and small, to allow or require staff to work remotely. But our “new normal” is evolving, prompting many employers to again reassess their remote work policies. Fisher Phillips attorneys Melissa (Osipoff) Camire and Seth Kaufman explore the practical and legal challenges raised by remote work. Their presentation centers on the factors that New York companies should consider when developing legally compliant and practical solutions for remote work to mitigate legal risks and ensure productive work.
