FIVE-STEP PLAN FOR EMPLOYERS AFTER PRESIDENT BIDEN ANNOUNCES WORKPLACE VACCINE MANDATES

Event

Sep 14, 2021

2:00 pm - 3:00 pm EDT

In arguably the most far-reaching move of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Biden administration just announced that federal workplace officials will soon issue a rule that will require all employers with more than 100 employees to either ensure their workers are vaccinated or require unvaccinated employees to produce a weekly negative COVID-19 test result before coming to work. As you would expect, there are many moving parts with such a significant development, and employers are bound to have questions. When will this new rule take effect? Will it apply to remote workers? Who pays for the tests? And what exactly are the tests we are talking about?

Join members of FP's Vaccine Subcommittee and Workplace Practice Group for an emergency webinar this Tuesday, September 14, to address these and many other questions – and come away with a five-step action plan you can put into place immediately.

This program has been approved for HRCI/SHRM credit.
