California litigation exploded in 2020 and has become even more rigorous in 2021 since COVID-19 arrived on scene. In the last five years, Fisher Phillips attorneys in California have litigated hundreds of actions and defended hundreds more cases in California and have already begun to see more and more COVID-19-related litigation. Our attorneys want to share their knowledge on lessons learned, successful approaches to effectively manage and defend litigation, and how to prepare for COVID and vaccine-related issues in the workplace.

During this two-part virtual conference intended for In-house Counsel and HR Directors, experienced Fisher Phillips attorneys will discuss the latest litigation, trends that impact business, effective preparation for fighting Wage & Hour cases, proven strategies on defeating litigation, and the most recent COVID-19 and vaccination issues affecting employers across California.

This webinar, designed for In-house counsel and HR directors will address:

- How California And Federal Courts Have Been Changing Wage and Hour Obligations by The Hour
- Vaccines, Masking, Back to Work, and the Impact on Employee Accommodation and Leaves
- Current Trends in COVID-19 Litigation
- Recent CA Employment Litigation Developments and How Employers Need to Adapt
