

Fisher Phillips Attorneys Author Article for Law360 on New York's New Ride-Sharing Regulations

Publication

9.05.18

Attorneys Rich Meneghello and Melissa Osipoff authored an article for Law360 to help attorneys understand New York's new regulations for riding-sharing companies. In the article, the attorneys make the case that the new wage requirements and license caps could stymie gig economy growth in the region and have the potential to serve as a model for other areas of the country – and may not necessarily be limited to ride-sharing businesses.

Related People

Melissa Camire

Partner

212.899.9965

Email

Richard R. Meneghello

Chief Content Officer

503.205.8044

Email

Related Offices

New York