

The Guardian Interviews Los Angeles Attorney About Religious Exemptions to COVID Vaccines and Testing

News

10.19.21

In an interview with The Guardian, Hannah Sweiss discusses the influx of California employees seeking exemptions related to Covid. From her perspective as a practicing lawyer, she points out that it has been “coming up a lot lately, and we’re getting questions about religious accommodations requests when it comes to vaccines, but also Covid testing.” And Hannah explains that it is not clear to employers how they should balance vaccine requirements amid the influx of requests for accommodations.

To read the article visit The Guardian.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Hannah Sweiss

Partner

818.230.4255

Email

Trending

COVID-19/Vaccine Resource Center

Related Offices

Los Angeles