

Portland Attorney Shares Tips for Employers Regarding Holiday Parties

Publication

12.05.18

In his article for Cascade Business News titled “’Twas the Night Before the Office Holiday Party...,” Portland attorney Stephen Scott reviews the top eight tips for employers to consider when planning holiday parties. In a clever prose resembling that of a Christmas carol, Stephen reminds employers to be cautious with serving alcohol at their parties and encourages them to have managers available to spot any bad behavior. Stephen indicates that inviting employee partners to holiday parties can be a wise idea, as it will prevent “some naughty flirting.” He concludes with a simple reminder for all employers – don’t hang mistletoe!
