

Denver Managing Partner Talks Autonomous Vehicles and Trade Secrets

Publication

2.18.19

As vehicles become increasingly automated, new technology is giving rise to new partnerships, including those with telecommunications and technology companies. In forming these new partnerships, companies are increasingly overlooking the risks to their trade secrets. In a bylined article for Autonomous Vehicle Technology, Denver Managing Partner Mike Greco outlines essential steps to protecting intellectual property with original equipment manufacturers (OEMs). To guard against risk that may compromise trade secrets, OEMs must think ahead and take steps to protect their trade secrets in the supply chain continuum.
