

Law360 interviews New Partner, Associate About Expanding Firm's Immigration Practice in Boston

News
2.11.22

New Partner Brian Coughlin and associate Tatiana Chiu were interviewed by Law360 about joining Fisher Phillips' Boston office, expanding the firm's Immigration practice with the aim of becoming a "one-stop-shop" for employers in New England.

Brian, who brings 17 years of experience in business immigration law to the firm, talked about his experience in helping businesses – from new venture capital-backed enterprises to large multinational companies – establish new U.S. offices and secure E-2 and E-1 visas. He also discussed his deep experience in employment authorization, employee training, enforcement, and regulatory compliance and preparation of immigrant and non-immigrant visa petitions.

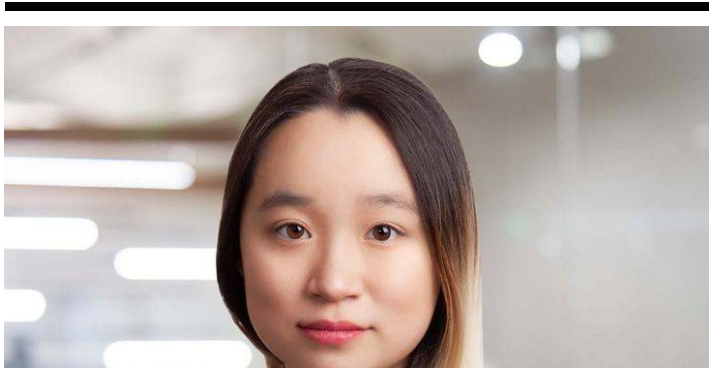

"I've filed thousands of H-1B petitions over the past almost 20 years and along the way I've developed a streamlined and, I think, effective approach," he said. "But with the scalability and technical resources, and depth of capability offered by Fisher Phillips, I'm excited to see how our annual H-1B process might be further refined and improved for our clients."

Read the full article in Law360 (subscription required).

An announcement about their arrival to the firm was also featured in the Massachusetts Bar Association's eJournal.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Tatiana S. Chiu

Associate

617.532.5893

Email

Brian J. Coughlin

Partner

617.532.5892

Email

Service Focus

Immigration

Related Offices

Boston