

Healthcare Co-Chair Pens Article on the Continued COVID-Related Pressures Faced by the Industry

Publication

4.20.22

In a bylined article published in Medical Journal – Houston, Kevin Troutman discusses the intense pressure being felt by healthcare employers despite the fact that COVID-19 numbers seem to be trending in the right direction. His article explains that employers in the healthcare industry are still facing pandemic-related scrutiny from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), the Occupational Health and Safety Administration (OSHA), and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). Kevin describes the overall pressure to comply with more federal oversight and notes that this requires healthcare employers “...to continue to devote time, attention, and resources to developing and managing effective policies; and to ask its leaders to continue to be nimble and responsive.”
