In a bylined article in New Orleans City Business, Stephen Scott offers employers seven key takeaways from a recent Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) webinar about vaccinations. Stephen explains that about 20 percent of Covid-related lawsuits center on vaccinations, which is why it is so important for employers to stay vigilant when it comes to vaccination disputes. He reminds employers that they can still ask employees about their vaccine status but should be cautious about denying religious accommodations. He also discusses other key takeaways involving telework, ADA compliance, and avoiding discrimination.
