

Websites, Mobile Apps, and the Americans with Disabilities Act

Publication

8.06.19

It is well-documented that ADA lawsuits are on the rise over the failure of websites to be compliant with the ADA. In his bylined article for the South Carolina Lawyer, Columbia attorney Phillips McWilliams examines recent court cases in the Fourth and Ninth Circuits that demonstrate the lack of guidance available to businesses seeking to ensure their websites and apps are compliant with the ADA. Further, he expects the number of lawsuits to continue to increase until federal lawmakers to action to help protect companies' online presence.

To read the full article, visit the South Carolina Lawyer.

Related People

Phillips L. McWilliams

Partner

803.255.0000

Email