

Insights, News & Events

OPINION: LABOR SECRETARY PICK LIKELY TO BE POPULAR WITH GEORGIA EMPLOYERS

Publication
Sep 9, 2019

In an Op-Ed published by The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Ed Foulke reviews the credentials of the new U.S. Labor Secretary Eugene Scalia. In the piece, Ed suggests that Scalia will aggressively battle against intrusive and overreaching regulations that hamstringing the country's employers, and will quickly endear himself to the business community in Georgia and across the U.S. It is likely, he says, that Scalia will influence legislation and regulation around workplace safety, pay equity, immigration and the Family and Medical Leave Act.

To read the full piece, visit the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

Related People

Edwin G. Foulke, Jr.

Partner

404.240.4273

Related Offices

Atlanta