

The Unfortunate Reality: Training for Active Shooters in the Workplace

Event

8.19.22

10:30 AM — 12:00 PM EDT

It's an unfortunate reality of the times we live in, but employers need to prepare for the possibility of an active shooter in the workplace – and consider how to respond should a tragedy occur at your facilities.

Join three of the nation's foremost experts – who have responded to tragedies at Sandy Hook, Charleston, Virginia Tech, and Ft. Hood – for a sobering but critical session designed to teach employers the key practical lessons you'll need to incorporate into your safety and security protocols. You'll leave this interactive 90-minute panel webinar, moderated by the co-chair of Fisher Phillips' Workplace Safety Team, with a solid blueprint you can immediately put into effect to safeguard your most valuable assets – your employees. It goes without saying that this could be the most important training you attend all year.

Presented by:

Wayne Freeman | S.C. Senior Special Agent (SAA), Statewide Training Lead and Active Shooter Training Coordinator

Orvel Ronk | Founder and CEO, Ronk Security Solutions

Kris Sacra | Founder, AVERT Training and Consulting

Travis Vance | Partner, Fisher Phillips
