Publication

10.08.19

In this Q&A for Law.com, Christine Baran describes how a regular dose of exercise helps her decompress. She explains that “[a] regular workout routine allows for a healthy release of many of the stresses with which I am confronted within litigation.” When asked how long she has been exercising on a regular basis she answered, “[w]hen I arrived at Fisher Phillips it was clear that the firm valued work-life balance, which meant that I wouldn’t have to disrupt my workout routine...so I have continually exercised throughout my time here, and I have exercised as a regular part of my daily life in excess of 20 years.”
