

Partner Discusses OSHA's Use of the General Duty Clause to Cite Employers for Heat-Related Incidents

News

7.28.22

In an interview with Construction Dive, Howard Mavity explains OSHA's use of the general duty clause to cite construction employers for heat-related incidents. The current lack of a formal heat standard means that OSHA falls back on the general duty clause, and Howard explains that this clause has "...evolved from being primarily aspirational to being a tool to cite when there's not an obvious standard."

To read the article visit Construction Dive.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Howard A. Mavity

Partner

404.240.4204

Email

Service Focus

Workplace Safety and Catastrophe Management

Related Offices

Atlanta