

Insights, News & Events

PARTNER DISCUSSES OSHA'S USE OF THE GENERAL DUTY CLAUSE TO CITE EMPLOYERS FOR HEAT-RELATED INCIDENTS

News

Jul 28, 2022

In an interview with Construction Dive, Howard Mavity explains OSHA's use of the general duty clause to cite construction employers for heat-related incidents. The current lack of a formal heat standard means that OSHA falls back on the general duty clause, and Howard explains that this clause has "...evolved from being primarily aspirational to being a tool to cite when there's not an obvious standard."

To read the article visit Construction Dive.

Related People

Howard A. Mavity

Partner

404.240.4204

---

Service Focus

Workplace Safety

---

Related Offices

Atlanta