The Florida legislature convened on Jan. 14, 2020, and this session, several employment bills could impact employers across the Sunshine State. In their article for the Daily Business Review, Orlando attorney Justin McConnell and Fort Lauderdale attorney Garrett Kamen take a look at the top workplace law bills that employers should keep their eye on in 2020. While it's not clear any of the workplace bills will make it out of committees to be voted upon by the legislature, Justin and Garrett discuss minimum wage hikes, paid family leave proposals, E-verify and ban-the-box legislation, among others.
