

Sacramento Partner Discusses California's New Pay Transparency Laws

News
9.29.22

In interviews with Law360 and Sacramento Business Journal, Ben Ebbink shares his insights on California's Pay Transparency for Pay Equity Act, recently signed into law by Gov. Newsom, that implements pay transparency laws in an attempt to close gender and race-related gaps. Ben explains that for many employers, it might just be easier to default to salary disclosure for all job postings at this point. "For those big national employers, when you have big states like California and New York do this, I think it does create an argument that this tipping point has been reached, and it's easier to do this across the board," said Ben.

To read the article visit Law360 and Sacramento Business Journal (subscription required). Click here to read the follow-up article incorporating Ben's insights on this topic.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Benjamin M. Ebbink
Partner
916.210.0400
Email

Service Focus

Pay Equity and Transparency

Related Offices

Sacramento